

Art and emotion expression are the topics of this chapter 5. Art is complicated, and not everyone understands it completely. It is possible that you enjoy creating some art forms more than others. While the abilities needed for each art form vary, they are all devoid of full artistic traits. Artists practice and learn from a variety of situations in order to get better at what they do. The term "making" in "soul making" is derived from the Greek word "poieo," which means "to create or make something." A person who employs their creativity to create something unique and priceless is known as a soul maker. The various phases of art creation, Leonardo da Vinci's seven principles, and textile arts are also covered in this chapter.

The visual elements of traditional Philippine patterns and crafts are examined in Chapter 6. It describes a motif as a significant word, image, sound, or other element used to convey a message. Although motifs provide support to themes, they are not topics in themselves. The chapter also discusses many types of symbols, motifs, and folk art. The folk art of the Philippines is rich, although it is not as well known as other Asian countries. In the Philippines, the natural environment is home to various important artistic treasures.
