What are my thoughts on git and github

Learning to use Git and GitHub is important for us as BSIT students because it makes managing projects easier and more organized, especially when working on large systems. It's very helpful for our upcoming capstone project and will also be useful when looking for jobs. While some may prefer working alone, in real-world jobs, collaborating as a team is essential, and Git and GitHub help us do that effectively.

Have you use git before or just getting started?

Yes

I've been using GitHub since my first year to save my projects, but I wasn't really familiar with using Git back then. When I reached my second year, I started exploring Git and using it more, and I continued to do so in my third year. However, I didn't collaborate much with other team members, and I'm still not fully used to working with others using Git.
